Picture Episode: In the case of Uganda

"Teacher Nalubega (my Ugandan name)! When are you coming for arts and crafts lesson?"

It was such a great reputation that I brought colors and papers to draw a picture at arts and crafts lesson in one of the classes.

This is because it is hardly seen so called "sub-subject" such as music, physical education and arts and craft, taught in local primary school here in Uganda. As the reasons, since almost all teachers were not taught these subjects at the age of primary and had few experiences on these subjects, they do not know what and how to teach them. Besides, it is found unnecessary to teach subject which is not in exam. Therefore, these subjects are likely to be ignored and not taught in Ugandan schools. However, I found the children in my school love drawing and coloring pictures. In fact, their eyes are completely different

Despite less experience on arts and crafts, they observe and imagine objects that they are trying to draw very carefully. With more experiences on them, they would have more essential skills on the subjects. Therefore, it is necessary to introduce and continue various activities for the children to acquire and refine the skills, so that it definitely help them developing the skills of thinking, imagining and expressing of feeling and more. From now on too, I will hand over my experiences and skills to the children and see how they grow through them.
